In the worst scenario, this could lead to the loss of all or part of the USDA which had been purchased. IF YOU DECIDE TO PURCHASE DBDT, YOU EXPRESSLY ACKNOWLEDGE, ACCEPT AND ASSUME THE FOLLOWING RISKS:

- There are many projects in the current blockchain field, and the competition is fierce. There is strong market competition and project operation pressure. Whether the DBDT can break through in many outstanding projects is widely recognized. It is not only linked to its own team capabilities, vision planning, but also so many competitors and even oligarchs in the market. There is a possibility of vicious competition.
- The DBDT brings together a team of talents with both vitality and strength, attracting experienced practitioners in the blockchain field and experienced technical developers. In the future development, the possibility that the core personnel will leave and the internal conflicts will occur will result in the negative impact of the DBDT as a whole.
- The possibility that DBDT applications are not used by a large number of individuals or organizations means that the public does not have enough interest to develop and develop these related distributed applications. Such a lack of interest may have a negative impact on DBDT and DBDT applications.
- Risk of hacking: The DBDT is at risk of being attacked by hackers or other organizations, including but not limited to denial of service attacks, Sybil attacks, malware attacks, or consistency attacks.
- Unlike accounts with bank accounts or other financial institutions, there is usually no insurance coverage stored on the DBDT account or the relevant blockchain network. In any case, there will be no public organization to cover your losses. In addition to the risks mentioned in this white paper, there are also risks that have not been mentioned or anticipated by the founding team.
